computer science is to practice coding regularly. Start by working on simple exercises and gradually move on to more complex projects.  4. Participate in coding challenges and competitions: Coding challenges and competitions provide a great opportunity to put your skills to the test and he left the place, condemned to die within twenty-four hours. The first of them told him so, with the customary prison sign of Death--a raised finger--and they all added in words, "Long live the Republic!" The five had had, it is true, no audience to lengthen their proceedings, for when